DETAILED ACTION

Response to Arguments

Applicant's arguments with respect to claims 17,18-26 have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.

Applicant's argument pertaining to priority benefit is persuasive and applicant's priority under provisions of 35 U.S.C. 119 and 120 has been acknowledged.

Double Patenting

Applicant is advised that should claim 17 be found allowable, claim 25 will be objected to under 37 CFR 1.75 as being a substantial duplicate thereof. When two claims in an application are duplicates or else are so close in content that they both cover the same thing, despite a slight difference in wording, it is proper after allowing one claim to object to the other as being a substantial duplicate of the allowed claim.

See MPEP § 706.03(k).

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

Claims 17,18-21,25 and 26 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

Regarding claims 17 and 25,

It is not clear within the claim language as to how the selector applies the control signal to the laser diode, since the claim language implies a direct connection between the laser diode and the selector but the drawings of the invention illustrate the connection from the selector to the laser diode via a current controller.

Regarding claim 18,

Applicant has not defined within the claim language the input of the laser diode, thereby creating a gap between the controller and the laser diode.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claims 17-23 and 25-28 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Shiozawa et al (PN 5,392,303).

Regarding claims 17,18,22,25 and 27,

Figure 4 illustrates a laser diode (101) providing an output laser beam, a current controller (216), a photodetector (115) for detecting the power of the laser beam, a temperature detector (104) for detecting the temperature of the laser diode, a voltage detector (114) for the detecting the voltage of the laser diode. The output laser beam detectors are connected to microcomputer (218), which compares the detected parameters to reference parameters stored within the microcomputer and provides corrections to the current controller or temperature controller.

Regarding claim 19,

Regarding claim 20,

Regarding claim 21,26 and 28,

Figure 4 illustrates a microcomputer, which selects between current or temperature controllers in accordance with the detected signal.

Regarding claim 23,

Figure illustrates the microcomputer providing correction signals to the current controller and the temperature controller, where each controller controls the supply of driving current to the laser diode and the peltier element (110), respectively.

F I G. 4

Allowable Subject Matter

Claim 24 is objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

None of the cited references discloses the delay circuit of dependent claim 24 combined with the limitations of independent claim 22, where the delay circuit is coupled with the selector and provides a delay to the current control of the cooling/heating element based on the selected controller by a predetermined time after either first and second controllers to be selected is determined.
